The Synoptic Problem

The “Synoptic Gospels”- The Gospels according to Matthew, Mark, and Luke are so similar to each other that, in a sense, they view Jesus “with the same eye” (syn-optic), in contrast to the very different picture of Jesus presented in the Fourth Gospel (John) or the non-canonical Gospels. Yet there are also many significant differences among the three Synoptic Gospels.

The “Synoptic Problem” - The similarities between Matthew, Mark, and Luke are so numerous and so close, both in the order of the material and in the exact wording of long stretches of text, that it is insufficient to explain the similarities on the basis of common oral tradition alone. Rather, some type of literary dependence must be assumed. That is, someone copied from someone else’s text; several of the evangelists must have used one or more of the earlier Gospels as sources for their own works. The situation is complicated because some of the material is common to all three Synoptics, while other material is in only two out of these three Gospels (see the color analysis suggested below). Moreover, the common material is not always presented in the same order in the various Gospels. So, the questions remain: who wrote first? and who copied from whom?

Some Older Proposals:

Note: Many other solutions have been proposed over the years, but most are variations of one of these three basic theories.

The Four-Source Theory (the solution accepted by most scholars today):

“Markan Priority” - For most of Christian history, people thought that Matthew was the first and oldest Gospel, and that Mark was a later, shorter version of the same basic message. Today, however, most scholars are convinced that Mark is the oldest Gospel (at least its final version, as we have it today), and that Matthew and Luke are later expansions of Mark. Why?

1. Mark’s Gospel contains several grammatical, literary, historical, and geographical difficulties (minor errors) that are not found in Matthew and/or Luke. If Matthew was first, it is harder to understand how Mark could have introduced these errors; but if Mark was first, it is easy to see how Matthew and/or Luke wanted to and were able to correct Mark’s minor mistakes.
2. Mark’s Gospel contains several episodes that are obscure (4:26-29; 14:51-52) or make Jesus look crazy (3:19-21), magical (7:32-37), or weak (8:22-26). If Matthew was first, it is harder to explain why Mark added these strange episodes; but if Mark was first, it is easy to understand why both Matthew and Luke omitted them.
3. Mark’s basic chronological/geographical structure is the same as in the other two Synoptics; but the material found in both Matthew and Luke (but not in Mark) is in very different orders in these two Gospels. If Matthew was first and Mark second, it is hard to understand why Luke would have kept the same order for all the material found in both Matthew and Mark, but substantially rearranged all the other material found in Matthew but not in Mark. If Mark was first, however, then it is easy to explain how Matthew and Luke inserted the extra material they have in common (from the Q source?) into Mark’s overall outline, although in significantly different ways.

Note that scholars who believe Mark was historically first do not suggest that the order of the four Gospels in the New Testament should be changed; there is no reason why the traditional order (Matthew, Mark, Luke, John) cannot be retained in printed Bibles. However, in textbooks and academic works, many scholars treat Mark first, followed by Matthew and Luke, with John usually still last.

Objections against the “Q-Hypothesis” - Some scholars object to the hypothesis of a lost collection the teachings of Jesus (as the “Q-document” is thought to have been) for various reasons; but each of these objections can easily be countered:

1. Objection: The “Q-document” no longer exists, if it ever did. Response: If almost all of the material in “Q” was incorporated into Matthew’s and/or Luke’s Gospels, then early Christians would have had little need or desire to preserve “Q” as a separate document. When people find a “revised and expanded edition” of a work, they don’t always keep the older, shorter edition. Rather than wondering why “Q” was lost, it would be more important to ask why Mark was preserved! (see the next section below)
2. Objection: No early Christians would have composed a collection of the sayings and teachings of Jesus, as “Q” supposedly was (like the “Sayings of Confucius” or the “Sayings of Chairman Mao”), without also including some stories of his miracles and other actions, and his passion, death, and resurrection. Response: The non-canonical “Gospel of Thomas,” rediscovered in 1948, is a collection of 114 sayings, parables, and short teachings of Jesus that does not include any miracles or other stories about events in Jesus’ life. Although the Gospel of Thomas is not the same as “Q” (its contents are significantly different), it is proof that early Christians did indeed compose the same type or genre of literature that the Q-document seems to have been.
3. Objection: The “Q-hypothesis” is not necessary for explaining the relationships among the three Synoptic Gospels. Response: All the other solutions that try to solve the Synoptic Problem without positing a “Q-document” (see the charts above) have their own significant problems. [The details are too complex to be discussed on this webpage, but are available in many textbooks and scholarly works.] Although we should remember that the past existence of a Q-document is only a hypothesis, not a proven fact, it does seem to provide the best solution for explaining the “Synoptic Problem.”

The Preservation and Canonization of Mark - Given that Mark’s Gospel is so short and has several difficulties (see above), it is interesting to ask why Mark was not lost, but rather was accepted into the NT canon. There are at least three reasons why Mark was preserved and canonized, despite its shortcomings:

1. Mark was the secretary or “interpreter” of Peter (see Papias, as quoted by Eusebius); so in a way, the Gospel according to Mark could be thought of as “Peter’s Gospel.” And since Peter was the leader among the apostles, early Christians would have had good reason to preserve what they considered to be a written record of Peter’s preaching.
2. Mark’s Gospel was thought to have been written in Rome and/or for the early Christians in Rome (see Clement of Alexandria, also quoted by Eusebius); so in a sense, Mark’s Gospel could be considered the “Gospel of/from Rome.” Not only was Rome the capital and largest city of the Roman empire, but the two most important Christian apostles, Peter and Paul, both preached, were martyred, and are buried there. Thus, the Christian community in Rome became prominent and influential very early in Christian history, and it is easy to understand why “their” Gospel would have been preserved and accepted into the NT canon.
3. If “Markan priority” is correct and Mark’s was indeed the first Gospel to have been written, then it would be the oldest available record of the words and deeds of Jesus, yet another reason why early Christians might have preserved and continued to use it, despite its brevity and shortcomings.

Color Analysis of Synoptic Materials:

When analyzing biblical passages that are common to two or three Gospels, biblical students often highlight the texts using commonly available colored pens. The following color scheme is very easy to remember, if you recall what most children learn in kindergarten about combining the primary colors. This coloration scheme is also used on the pages of this website.

Single Traditions:

Use the following colors to highlight words, phrases, or longer passages that occur in only one Gospel, but not in the others:

Matthew red	Mark yellow	Luke blue
-----------------------	-----------------------	---------------------

Double Traditions:

Use the following colors to highlight materials that occur in two of the Synoptic Gospels, but not in the third:

Matt &amp; Mark red + yellow = orange	Mark &amp; Luke yellow + blue = green
Matt &amp; Luke (Q) red + blue = purple

Triple Traditions:

Use a pencil or black pen to underline materials that are identical in all three of the Synoptic Gospels:

Matt &amp; Mark &amp; Luke (black or gray pencil)

The Gospel according to Matthew: Literary Features & Theological Emphases

I) Composition and History of the Gospel according to Matthew:

- Attributed Author:
  - Matthew was a tax collector, one of the twelve apostles (see Matt 9:9; 10:3; Mark 3:18; Luke 6:15; Acts 1:13).
  - Although not all the apostles could read and write, tax collectors like Matthew certainly could.
  - The apostle Matthew himself may have written an early collection of Jesus' sayings in Hebrew or Aramaic, but probably not the full 28-chapter Gospel written in Greek as found in the New Testament (the "canonical Gospel").
- Actual Author:
  - Anonymous 2nd-generation Jewish-Christian teacher used various sources to create Gospel acc. to Matthew.
  - Author was a trained "scribe" (cf. Matt 13:52), very familiar with Hebrew Bible and fluent in Hebrew, Aramaic, and Greek.
  - Just as for the other Gospels, the title "Gospel according to Matthew" was not added to the text until the second century.
- Original Readers / Intended Audience:
  - Mostly Jews who had come to believe in Jesus as the Messiah, the fulfillment of biblical prophecies.
  - Matthew teaches them about the significance of Jesus, but without abandoning their Jewish heritage (Matt 5:17-20).
  - Matthew challenges them to put their faith into action (not just words, but also deeds).
  - Matthew's community was evidently opposed to/by the Pharisees (Jewish leaders who denied that Jesus was Messiah).
- Date of Composition:
  - For many centuries, people thought Matthew was oldest of four Gospels; most scholars today believe Mark was first.
  - Gospel of Matthew probably not finalized until the late 70's or 80's of the first century, but it incorporates older sources.
  - Main sources are Old Testament, Gospel of Mark, Q-Document, and other oral or written material about Jesus.
  - Final composition of Matthew was after destruction of Jerusalem temple in AD 70 (see Matt 21:41; 22:7; 24:15-16)
- Place of Composition:
  - Possibly in Palestine, but more probably in or around the city of Antioch, the capital of the Roman province of Syria.
  - Large early Christian community there: "it was in Antioch that the disciples were first called Christians" (Acts 11:26b).
  - In early 2nd century already, Bishop Ignatius of Antioch (died ca. 110 AD) quotes passages from Matthew's Gospel.

II) Sources and Contents of the Gospel according to Matthew:

- Main Sources of Matthew's Gospel:
  - Old Testament: Matthew's Gospel quotes extensively from the Old Testament, especially the prophetic books.
  - Gospel of Mark: Most scholars today believe that Mark is the oldest surviving Gospel, and that the author of Matthew's Gospel used Mark's text as one of his primary written sources.
  - Q-Document: Matthew supplemented Markan material with more stories & teachings of Jesus from another written source, now lost, which scholars call the Q-Document (from the German word "Quelle," meaning "source").
  - Sayings of the Lord, recorded by Matthew: The 4th-century church historian Eusebius of Caesarea refers to the 2nd-century bishop Papias of Hierapolis regarding the composition of Matthew's Gospel see [Eusebius on the Four Gospels].
    - "So then Matthew wrote the oracles in the Hebrew language, and every one interpreted them as he was able."
    - This collection of "Sayings of the Lord" may have been written in Aramaic, the Jews' common spoken language at the time of Jesus, rather than in Hebrew (language of ancient Israelites, in which most of the OT is written).
    - If Matthew's early document was a source, it explains why the Greek Gospel was called "according to Matthew."
  - Other Material: Matthew also incorporated some material from other written and/or oral sources.
- Use of Mark's Gospel in Matthew:
  - Matthew's Gospel retains the geographical outline and most of the content of Mark's Gospel:
    - The public ministry of Jesus seems to last only about one year (from his baptism to his death).
    - The adult Jesus undertakes only one journey to Jerusalem with his disciples, at the very end of his life.
    - Matthew's Gospel contains most of Mark's material, although sometimes rearranged (see Matt 5-7 & 8-11).
    - Very few stories from Mark are omitted by Matthew.
  - Matthew's Gospel improves on Mark's Greek grammar and writing style:
    - Matthew makes some stories less wordy and repetitive than in Mark.
    - Matthew narrates stories of Jesus in the past tense, not Mark's "historical present"
  - Matthew's Gospel corrects some of Mark's historical inaccuracies:
    - Matt 3:3 drops text not actually from Isaiah 40 (cf. Mark 1:2-3)
    - Matt 12:3 omits incorrect reference to "Abiathar" (cf. Mark 2:26)

- Matthew's Gospel groups similar materials, but in ways different from Mark:
  - Sermon on the Mount (Matt 5–7)
  - Ten Miracles (Matt 8–9), but also including various dialogues & teachings
  - Many parables, mostly about the "Kingdom of Heaven" (Matt 13)
  - A series of "Woes" against the scribes and Pharisees (Matt 23)
  - Another collection of parables (Matt 24–25)
- Additional Materials in Matthew's Gospel, not found in Mark:
  - New Narrative Material added:
    - Infancy story (chap. 1–2, including genealogy of Jesus)
    - Three temptations of Jesus in the desert (4:1-11; also in Luke 4:1-13)
    - Healing a Centurion's servant (8:5-13; also in Luke 7:1-10)
    - Healing of two blind men in Galilee (9:27-31; cf. 20:29-34)
    - Peter attempts to walk on water (14:28-31)
    - New episodes in Passion Narrative (chap. 26–27)
    - Risen Jesus appears to disciples in Galilee: Great Commission (chap. 28)
  - New Sayings Material added:
    - In Mark, Jesus is often addressed as "teacher," but Mark includes relatively few teachings of Jesus
    - Matthew has many more sayings, teachings, parables, dialogues, etc.
    - Some of these also in Luke (from Q-source); others are unique to Matthew (from other oral or written sources)
  - Complete list of materials unique to Matthew: http://catholic-resources.org/Bible/Synoptic\_Outlines.htm#Matt

III) Structural Outline of Matthew's Gospel:

- Five Major Discourses: Most scholars agree that aside from the introduction (Ch. 1–2: Narrative of Jesus' Birth) and conclusion (Ch. 26–28: Narrative of Jesus' Passion, Death, and Resurrection), the body of Matthew's Gospel is structured around five lengthy sermons that Jesus gives to his disciples or to the broader public.
  - First Discourse: "Sermon on the Mount": Matt 5–7
  - Second Discourse: "Missionary Instructions": Matt 10
  - Third Discourse: "Collection of Parables": Matt 13
  - Fourth Discourse: "Community Instructions": Matt 18
  - Fifth Discourse: "Sermon on Eschatology": Matt 23–25
- This structure is indicated by the Evangelist himself, who at the end of each of these five discourses writes a transition:
  - "Now when Jesus had finished saying these things, the crowds were astounded at his teaching..." (7:28)
  - See also 11:1; 13:53; 19:1; 26:1
- The rest of Matthew's Gospel (Ch. 3–4, 8–9, 11–12, 14–17, 19–23) consists mostly of narrative materials (Jesus' travels, miracles, healings, exorcisms, disputes with opponents, etc.), although also containing many shorter sayings and teachings.

IV) Literary Features and Themes of Matthew:

- Matthew's Gospel includes many references to the Hebrew Scriptures, esp. Prophetic Texts:
  - Biblical Event and Characters: Matthew's Gospel frequently refers to figures from the Old Testament:
    - Moses (mentioned 7 times), Elijah (9x), Isaiah (6x), Jeremiah (3x), Daniel (1x), David (17x), Solomon (3x), etc.
  - Direct Quotations: Matthew's Gospel contains over sixty quotations of (or strong allusions to) texts from Hebrew Bible.
    - It frequently says the words or actions of Jesus or other Gospel characters have taken place "to fulfill" the scriptures.
    - The scripture quotations are sometimes introduced by what scholars call a "fulfillment formula."
  - Fulfillment Formulas: In over a dozen texts, the evangelist/narrator(Matthew) says, "All this took place to fulfill what had been spoken by the Lord through the prophet" (or something similar), often followed by an OT quotation:
    - Matt 1:22-23; 2:5b-6; 2:15b; 2:17-18; 2:23b; 3:3; 4:14-16; 8:17; 12:17-21; 13:14-15; 13:35; 21:4-5; 26:56; 27:9-10
    - In most references, the particular "prophet" is not named; but several times Matthew explicitly names Isaiah (3:3; 4:14; 8:17; 12:17; 13:14; 15:7), Jeremiah (2:17; 27:9; see also 16:14), and Daniel (24:15)
  - Jesus himself says something very similar in several texts:
    - Matt 5:17 (Sermon on the Mount, speaking to the crowds) - "Do not think that I have come to abolish the law or the prophets; I have come not to abolish but to fulfill."
    - Matt 15:7 (in Galilee, speaking to Pharisees) - "You hypocrites! Isaiah prophesied rightly about you when he said..."
    - Matt 26:54 (at Gethsemane) - "But how then would the scriptures be fulfilled, which say it must happen in this way?"
    - Matt 26:56a (at Gethsemane) - "But all this has taken place, so that the scriptures of the prophets may be fulfilled."

- Matthew's Gospel improves the Portrait of Jesus' Disciples:
  - Mark 4:13 – They don't understand Jesus' parables
    - Matt 13:51 – "Have you understood all this? They answered, Yes"
  - Mark 8:29-30 – When Peter says Jesus is the Christ, Jesus tells him not to tell!
    - Matt 16:15-20 – Jesus responds much more positively to Peter
  - Mark 10:35-40 – James and John request places of honor for themselves
    - Matt 20:21-24 – their mother makes the request for them
- Matthew's Gospel worsens the Portrayals of Jesus' Opponents:
  - More focus on "scribes and Pharisees" as Jesus' main opponents (see Matt 5:20; 9:11, 34; 12:2; 23:2-3; 27:62)
    - Use of phrases "their synagogues" (4:23; 9:35) and "their scribes" (7:29) emphasizes the separation.
    - Matthew's Jesus calls them "hypocrites, blind guides, blind fools" ("Woe to you..." Matt 23:1-39)
  - More focus on conspiracy between Judas Iscariot, Jewish authorities (esp. Caiaphas), and Pilate in plot to kill Jesus:
- Matthew's Gospel has many Pairs/Twos:
  - Call of Peter & Andrew, James and John: specifies "two brothers" (4:18-21)
  - Two healing stories, each with two blind men (both in 9:27-31 and 20:29-34)
  - Two demoniacs (8:28-34); Parable of two sons (21:28-32)
  - Other pairs: weeds & wheat; God & mammon; wise & foolish virgins; sheep & goats; etc.
- In Matthew's Gospel, Jesus' Ministry is only to Jews, not Gentiles nor Samaritans:
  - Jesus sends the apostles out on a mission only to "the lost sheep of the house of Israel," explicitly telling them "Go nowhere among the Gentiles, and enter no town of the Samaritans" (Matt 10:5b-6)
  - Only at the end of the Gospel, in the "Great Commission," does the risen Jesus tell his disciples, "All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. / Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit..." (Matt 28:18-19)

V) Christology: Matthew's Portrait of Jesus

Gospel of Matthew uses the main Christological titles found already in Mark's Gospel, including Christ/Messiah, Son of God, Son of Man, Rabbi, and Teacher. But Matthew adds several new titles and emphasizes certain aspects of Jesus' identity differently from Mark. Matthew's Gospel identifies Jesus as "the son of David, the son of Abraham" (1:1), indicating Jesus' Davidic/royal and Abrahamic/Jewish heritage, respectively. In Matthew's Gospel, Jesus is also presented as "the New Moses" for the people of Israel, and is given a variety of other titles, including Emmanuel, Savior, Prophet, and King of the Jews.

- A. Jesus as the Son of Abraham (and Isaac & Jacob) - stresses Jesus' Jewish heritage much more directly than Mark does:
- "An account of the genealogy of Jesus the Messiah, the son of David, the son of Abraham. / Abraham was the father of Isaac, and Isaac the father of Jacob, and Jacob the father of Judah and his brothers..." (Matt 1:1-2)
  - "So all the generations from Abraham to David are fourteen generations; and from David to the deportation to Babylon, fourteen generations; and from the deportation to Babylon to the Messiah, fourteen generations." (Matt 1:17)
  - In John the Baptist's preaching to the scribes and Pharisees: "Do not presume to say to yourselves, 'We have Abraham as our ancestor'; for I tell you, God is able from these stones to raise up children to Abraham." (Matt 3:9)
  - When Jesus complements a Roman centurion's faith: "I tell you, many will come from east and west and will eat with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven, / while the heirs of the kingdom will be thrown into the outer darkness, where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth." (Matt 8:11-12)
  - When Jesus argues with the Sadducees about the resurrection of the dead: "And as for the resurrection of the dead, have you not read what was said to you by God, / 'I am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob'? He is God not of the dead, but of the living." (Matt 22:31-32; citing Exod 3:6; par. Mark 12:26)
- B. Jesus as the Son of David and King of the Jews (and King of Israel)
- Matthew's version of Jesus' genealogy also stresses that he is the royal "Son of David": "An account of the genealogy of Jesus the Messiah, the son of David, the son of Abraham... / ...and Jesse the father of King David. And David was the father of Solomon by the wife of Uriah... / So all the generations from Abraham to David are fourteen generations; and from David to the deportation to Babylon, fourteen generations; and from the deportation to Babylon to the Messiah, fourteen generations." (Matt 1:1, 6, 17; cf. 1:20)
  - More subtle references to King David in this genealogy are three mentions of the number fourteen (the number of the name "David" in Hebrew gematria, since D=4, V=6, and only consonants are counted; thus D+V+D = 4+6+4 = 14). Moreover, the deportation to Babylon is also a subtle reference to the royal line of David, since it was at that time when the descendants of David ceased to rule as Kings of Judea (in contrast to the promises made in 2 Sam 7:11b-13).
  - Matthew later stresses that Jesus is royal "Son of David" (Matt 9:27; 12:23; 15:22; 20:30-31; 21:1-9; 21:15; 22:42-45).

- In Mark, the title “King of the Jews” is only used near the end of the Gospel: during the trial of Jesus before Pilate (Mark 15:2, 9, 12; cf. Matt 27:11), when the soldiers mock the condemned Jesus (Mark 15:18; cf. Matt 27:29), and on the titulus on the cross stating the reason why Jesus was crucified (Mark 15:26; cf. Matt 27:37). Before Jesus dies on the cross, some bystanders also mockingly call him “the King of Israel” (Mark 15:32; cf. Matt 27:42).
- Already at the beginning of Matthew, Magi from the East come in search of the newborn “King of the Jews” (Matt 2:2).
- Note that kings also appear as characters in various parables of Matthew’s Gospel (Matt 18:23; 22:2-10; 22:11-13; 25:34-40), much more frequently than in Mark or Luke.

C. Jesus as a great Prophet and Teacher, like a new Moses

- The name “Moses” is not directly used in a Christological Title, nor can Jesus be called the “Son of Moses,” since Jesus belongs to the Tribe of Judah, while Moses belongs to the Tribe of Levi (see a chart of Abraham’s Descendants). However, Jesus is portrayed as being very similar to Moses in several interesting and significant ways:
  - Pharaoh (King of Egypt, 1300 BC) killed all the baby boys of the Hebrews, and only Moses is saved (Exod 1:22–2:10),
    - so also Herod (King of Israel) kills all the male babies in Bethlehem, and only Jesus is saved (Matt 2:13-18).
  - When Moses’ life is in danger, he flees from Egypt to Israel, but returns to Egypt after many years (Exod 2:15; 7:6-7);
    - when Jesus’ life is in danger, he takes goes from Israel to Egypt and later back to Israel (Matt 2:13-21).
  - Moses goes up to a mountain to receive the Law (incl. the Ten Commandments) from God (Exod 19:3),
    - so also Jesus goes up to a mountain to give a new Law (incl. the Nine Beatitudes) to the people (Matt 5:1).
  - Moses does not eat or drink for forty days and forty nights while on the mountain, recording God’s Law (Exod 34:28),
    - so also Jesus fasts for forty days and forty nights in the desert, being tempted by Satan (Matt 4:2).
  - Moses was thought to have written the first five books of the Hebrew Bible (Gen, Exod, Lev, Num, Deut),
    - so also Jesus’ teaching is contained in five speeches or extended “discourses” (Matt 5–7, 10, 13, 18, 23–25).
  - Moses was considered the greatest teacher, prophet and lawgiver in the Hebrew Bible (and throughout the NT);
    - so also Jesus is portrayed in Matthew as a great teacher, prophet and lawgiver, equal to or greater than Moses.
  - Moses is mentioned seven times in Matthew (8:4; 17:3-4; 19:7-8; 22:24; 23:2), most of which have parallels in Mark;
    - Matthean Jesus also explicitly upholds the law of Moses, rather than abolishing it (5:17-20; 22:35-40; etc.)

D. Jesus as Emmanuel (“God with Us”) and Savior

- Infancy narrative: “Joseph, son of David, do not be afraid to take Mary as your wife, for the child conceived in her is from the Holy Spirit. / She will bear a son, and you are to name him Jesus, for he will save his people from their sins.” / All this took place to fulfill what had been spoken by the Lord through the prophet: / “Look, the virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and they shall name him Emmanuel,” which means, “God is with us” (Matt 1:20-23; citing Isaiah 7:14).
- During a storm at sea, Jesus’ disciples cry out, “Lord, save us” (Matt 8:25)
- When Peter attempts to walk on water, but begins sinking, he similarly cries, “Lord, save me” (Matt 14:30).
- Jesus several times teaches, “Whoever endures to the end will be saved” (Matt 10:22; 24:13; cf. 24:22).
- How hard for the rich to enter Kingdom of heaven; then people ask, “Then who can be saved?” (Matt 19:25; cf. 16:25)
- While dying on the cross, Jesus is taunted by various groups: “You who would destroy the temple and build it in three days, save yourself! If you are the Son of God, come down from the cross.” (Matt 27:40; cf. 27:42, 49).
- When the risen Jesus speaks to the disciples on a mountain in Galilee, his very last words are, “And remember, I am with you always, to the end of the age.” (Matt 28:20; cf. 26:29)

VI) Discipleship: Matthew’s Description of Christian Life and Community

- The ideal disciple is a loyal subject who obeys the King; a good student who learns & understands what he/she is taught:
  - Jesus’ disciples understand his parables (Matt 13:51; contrast Mark 4:13, where they don’t understand)
  - They understand when he says, beware the yeast of the Pharisees and Herodians (Matt 16:12; contrast Mark 8:17-21)
  - When Jesus speaks about Elijah, his disciples understand that he means John the Baptist (Matt 17:13)
- Authentic discipleship necessitates putting faith into action:
  - John Baptist preaches, “...every tree therefore that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire” (Matt 3:10)
  - Jesus teaches, “In the same way, let your light shine before others, so that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father in heaven.” (Matt 5:16)
  - Jesus uses analogies of trees and other plants producing good or bad fruit (Matt 7:15-20; cf. 12:33-37)
  - Jesus teaches, “Not everyone who says to me, ‘Lord, Lord,’ will enter the kingdom of heaven, but only the one who does the will of my Father in heaven.” (Matt 7:21-23)
  - The parable of houses built on rock or on sand (Matt 7:24-27)
  - The parable of the sower and the seed, only some of which produces a great yield (Matt 13:8, 23)
  - The parable of the weeds among the wheat (Matt 13:24-30; explained in 13:36-43)
  - The parable of the two sons (Matt 21:28-32)

And he came to the Ancient One and was presented before him.”
Matt 27:9-10 – Then was fulfilled what had been spoken through the prophet Jeremiah , “And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of the one on whom a price had been set, on whom some of the people of Israel had set a price, / and they gave them for the potter’s field, as the Lord commanded me.”	Zechariah 11:12-13 – “I then said to them, ‘If it seems right to you, give me my wages; but if not, keep them.’ So they weighed out as my wages thirty shekels of silver. / Then the LORD said to me, ‘Throw it into the treasury’--this lordly price at which I was valued by them. So I took the thirty shekels of silver and threw them into the treasury in the house of the LORD.”
Matt 27:46 – And about three o’clock Jesus cried with a loud voice, “Eli, Eli, lema sabachthani?” that is, “My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?”	Psalm 22:1 – “My God, my God, why have you forsaken me? Why are you so far from helping me, from the words of my groaning?”

Parables and Parabolic Images in the Gospels

What is a “Parable”?

Definition: “At its simplest a parable is a metaphor or simile drawn from nature or common life, arresting the hearer by its vividness or strangeness, and leaving the mind in sufficient doubt about its precise application to tease it into active thought.” (C. H. Dodd, The Parables of the Kingdom, New York: Charles Scribner’s Sons, 1961, p. 5)

Implications of this definition:

- The meaning of most parables is not so obvious, or at least it shouldn’t be. If we assume we know what Jesus is talking about, we are probably missing the main point; if we are too familiar with the story (having heard it so often before), we might not think carefully enough about its real meaning.
- Most parables contain some element that is strange or unusual. They should cause you to say, “Wait a minute! That’s not how farmers do their work! That’s not what kings usually do! That’s not what normally happens in nature!” And this strange element should cause you to think!
- Parables do not define things precisely, but rather use comparisons to describe some aspect of how God acts or interacts with human beings. Yet to say “A is like B” does not mean that “A is identical to B in all respects”; so one should be careful not to misinterpret or misapply the parables.

The Purpose of the Parables?

We might think that Jesus spoke in parables to make it easier for people to understand his message. According to the Gospels, however, he surprisingly does NOT expect everyone to understand them! This is clearly expressed in Matthew 13:10-17. In Matt 13:51, at least Jesus’ disciples understand the parables; but in Mark 4:13, 33-34, even they have a hard time understanding, despite receiving extra instructions in private!

Where Are the Gospel Parables?

From the tables below, you will note that Mark has only few parables and related images; Matthew adds quite a few more; and Luke has by far the most parables in the New Testament, including some of the most famous ones. The non-canonical Gospel of Thomas also contains quite a few parables that are also found in one or more of the Synoptics. In contrast, John’s Gospel never uses the word “parable” and has only few very images that are even similar to Synoptic parables. To compare the texts of parables that appear in two or more of the Gospels, see The Five Gospel Parallels website.

Only two Parable-like Images in the Gospel according to John:

- Shepherd and Sheep (John 10:1-16)

Miracle Stories in the New Testament

Introduction and Classifications: The miracle stories of the New Testament can be separated into several different categories, each of which is significantly different from the others. Within each category, however, most of the stories have certain formal similarities:

- Individual Narratives of Specific Miracles (and associated controversies):
  - Exorcisms (casting out demons and unclean spirits)
  - Healing Miracles (healing physical illnesses & impairments)
  - Restoration Miracles (raising the dead; restoring to life)
  - Nature Miracles (feeding multitudes, calming storms, etc.)
- The Evangelists' Summaries of Miracles and Related Actions:
  - Summaries of Jesus' Ministry (exorcisms, miracles, and related works)
  - Summaries of Other's Works (the disciples and/or other exorcists)
  - Consider what Jesus does, for whom, and/or why? And how do people react?

Form Criticism of Healing Miracle Narratives:

One task of "form criticism" is to study many stories of one genre in order to determine a typical pattern for that genre. For example, most English "fairy tales" begin with "Once upon a time..." then develop some conflict, then show how the hero resolves the problem, and finally end with "...and they lived happily ever after."

In the NT, most "healing miracles" are narrated according to a fairly regular pattern that typically consists of five stages (some scholars count only three, others six or more, but I suggest the following five):

1. Introduction - A geographical/temporal setting is given; the condition of the sick person(s) is described; the healer encounters the sick person(s), or they are brought to the healer, or someone tells the healer about them.
2. Conflict/Delay - Often the healer investigates what the sick person wants or needs; sometimes the healer hesitates or tests the sick person's readiness to be healed; sometimes other persons intervene or delay the healing.
3. Healing Action - The healing itself might be brought about verbally, or through a simple touch, or through more elaborate therapeutic means (using spittle, oil, etc.). Sometimes the healing action is only implied, but not explicitly described.
4. Confirmation - The fact that the healing has taken place is either asserted by the narrator or demonstrated through some action performed by the person who has been healed (standing up, walking, speaking, etc.).
5. Reaction - Usually some reaction from those who witnessed the event is reported. In the Gospels, this response is often positive (giving praise to God), but sometimes there are negative reactions from some opponents.

Form Criticism of Healing Miracles: Detailed Analysis

“Form criticism” also carefully analyzes particular stories so as to see how typical or how unusual they are for their genre. If a particular narrative omits or adds some stages, or if in a certain stage it says something different from what you would expect, then we should ask why the author has not followed the typical pattern and what he or she is emphasizing thereby. In the NT, for example, some “healing miracles” omit the “Reaction” stage, others have a much longer “Conflict” stage than normal. Many have only a very brief description of the actual healing, but some have a more detailed “Action” stage. A careful analysis of several miracle stories leads to some interesting conclusions about the different messages of the different evangelists.

For each of the following narratives, which verses belong to which of the five standard stages? Also, which stage is emphasized in each story? Finally, what conclusions can we draw about what the evangelists are trying to say to their readers? In particular, how is the emphasis of Matthew in these stories significantly different from that of Mark and/or Luke?

	Stage 1 Introduction	Stage 2 Conflict/Delay	Stage 3 Healing Action	Stage 4 Confirmation	Stage 5 Reaction
Mark 2:1-12
Matthew 9:1-8
Mark 8:22-26
Mark 10:46-52
Matthew 9:27-31
Matthew 20:29-34
Luke 18:35-43
Luke 7:11-17
Luke 13:10-17

Practical Notes:

- Fill in the chart above with the exact verse numbers which belong to the corresponding typical stages for each of these healing miracle narratives.
- Use letters a and b to distinguish the first and second half of verses, if needed (i.e., use 10:52a and 10:52b, if the two halves of verse 52 belong to different stages).
- Remember that a particular narrative may totally omit or severely curtail one or more of these stages, or it may greatly expand and emphasize one stage, or it may even mix up the order of some of the stages.
- Put a big “X” in any box if a stage is missing from any of the stories. Add brief comments about any other unusual elements you find in any stage.
- Highlight which stage you think is the longest and/or receives the most emphasis in each narrative.

  - Mary Magdalene & other women – faithful witnesses
  - Joseph of Arimathea – courageous, charitable disciple
